Portland Hospital - 215, 216 and ITU

The artwork is consistent with the themes previously created by the artist for use in the children's areas of the Portland Hospital.

The theme employs block colour children playing against a parkland backdrop of Regents Park. This imagery has now been developed for printing directly onto a white ROC substrait which forms the walls in the new units at 215 Portland Street.

Sections of the large scale murals have been cropped and printed onto acrylic or forex panels for corridor spaces and consulting rooms.

For the Gynaecology ward, a band of light theme was introduced taking flora and fauna imagery and inserting a contrasting band of colour horizontally or vertically across the artwork.
