Regent Street Management

Art Contact was asked to source artwork for the reception area at Venture House, that would make a strong impression to clients and staff alike.

These large bold abstract paintings are visually striking without being intrusive on the space which echoes the company's approach to their operations.

Framed in stained-black ash, this project is a prime example of how keeping framing simple creates no distractions from the artworks themselves. Our in house framing team allows us to tailor our framing solution to the clients needs. Subsequently overseeing projects from conceptualisation to installation without the need to out-source.

This combined with the curvature of the wall and the locations of the artworks in relation to the lighting created an enticing outcome, that met the clients' expectations.
